Colombia:

ISO 14001 is a standard in the field of environmental management developed by the International Organization for Standardization. Using an environmental management system according to ISO 14001, the environmental risks of the business managed and where possible reduced. ISO 14001 certification is not generally required, but there are municipalities that request them in providing an environmental permit. Larger companies, especially governments, set ISO 14001 certification in procurement is often a requirement in their applications. <http://www.icontec.org>

Kenia:

In June 2013 Manupal International from Kenya Manupal International in Kenya has been audited by Intertek Certification Ltd. and found to meet the requirements of Global Standard for Packaging and Packaging materials Issue 4. Scope: slitting, printing, rewinding of PVC shrink sleeves, BOPP flower sleeves and self-adhesive labels & packed in stretched film and corrugated boxes for secondary packaging for food and non-food applications.

The BRC-IoP certification was developed by the British Retail Consortium and focuses on the requirements for food safety by HACCP (Hazard Analysis & Critical Control Points) and GMP (Good Manufacturing Practice). The guidelines apply specifically for this link in the food industry, as the FEFCO standard, which was also developed by the European cardboard producers.

Global:

Koen Pack is a firm believer in lowering the carbon footprint of all our products, and with that, the impact on the environment. All our plastics are fully recyclable, and we are able to produce degradable plastics that are currently available in the market. We strongly prefer recycling however, since it's always better to prevent plastic from ending up in the landfills, key is to educate consumers to actually recycle all plastics. That's why we show the recycle logo on our products wherever possible. We use water based inks where possible.
